

Israel's Healthcare System

Israel's healthcare system is one of the world's most advanced.

Israel's law protects patients' rights and prioritizes their wellbeing throughout the care continuum.

People in Israel enjoy access to a wide variety of medical services offered by health funds.

Health Insurance

According to the National Health Insurance Law (1994), every Israeli resident must be insured with one of the four health funds.

In Israel, health insurance is funded through progressive health insurance premiums collected by the National Insurance Institute and supplemented by the state budget.

Health funds are obligated to provide members with a government-determined list of health insurance benefits, known as the health basket.

Health Insurance

Every Israeli resident is free to switch from one health fund to another - doing so is easy and fast, with no extra fees or bureaucracy. You can do this by simply visiting your HMO's local branch or contacting their call center.

In addition to state-provided health insurance, health funds offer extra medical services not covered by the state's basket of health services (known as "Shaban").

Supplementary Insurance Services

The health basket, although comprehensive, may not cover all your medical needs and those of your family. With supplementary health insurance plans (“Shaban”), you can access additional medical services beyond what’s available in the health basket.

At Leumit Health Services, we offer two levels of supplementary insurance plans:

- Leumit Silver
